About the podcast

The Other Stories Podcast is a collection of honest, open and sometimes candid conversations with people from a whole range of marginalised, under-represented and unheard groups who share their stories about feeling different from the mainstream, of feeling 'other.'

The objectives for the podcast are:

- To create a safe, accepting space for people from marginalised and underrepresented groups to share their story
- To give others an opportunity to walk a mile in their shoes and to create greater understanding and inclusion.
- Ultimately to help make the world a kinder more inclusive place

1. In what way do you/have you felt yourself to be different from most other people?

2. What is your key story you would like to share on the podcast?

3. What would you want the audience to learn from your story?

4. What would be your key message for the audience? (If different from Q3)?

5. What would you want to invite the audience to think and/or do differently as a result of hearing your story?

6. Are you prepared to promote your episode of The Other Stories Podcast when it is published?

7. So that I can hear a little of your story or style, please mention the last 3 other podcasts you have previously featured on?
